

sometimes (unfortunately), an onshore group must write most of the detailed requirements and automated acceptance tests onshore

these flow to the offshore team in small sets, with a milestone that the details for the next iteration need to be clear before the offshore requirements workshop